Compassionate Shopping Guide

Companies that do not test finished products, ingredients, or formulations on animals.

About AAVS

The American Anti-Vivisection Society (AAVS) was founded by Caroline Earle White in 1883 to rally the public against the use of cats and dogs in medical experiments and teaching. Since then, AAVS has been working to end the use of animals in research, testing, and education through effective, legal efforts to change policy and to educate the public about the plight of animals in laboratories.

Be a part of an organization fighting for animals for over 120 years! Please join our effort by becoming a member of AAVS and by using our handy Compassionate Shopping Guide.

The Coalition for Consumer Information on Cosmetics (CCIC) developed the Corporate Standard for Compassion for Animals (Standard), an internationally recognized non-animal-testing standard.

Formed in 1996, CCIC is comprised of these leading national animal protection groups:

- ★ American Anti-Vivisection Society
- ★ American Humane Association
- ★ Animal Protection Institute
- ★ Beauty Without Cruelty, U.S.A.
- ★ Doris Day Animal League
- ★ The Humane Society of the United States
- ★ New England Anti-Vivisection Society

These countries have adopted the Corporate Standard of Compassion for Animals: Austria, Belgium, Canada, Finland, France, Ireland, Italy, The Netherlands, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, United States of America.

About this Shopping Guide

Each year, an untold number of animals continue to suffer and die in laboratories in the United States and Canada in tests for products such as shampoo, make-up, and laundry detergent. Animals continue to suffer elsewhere around the world, and products tested on animals continue to be imported and sold across the globe. There has been some success, as animal testing for cosmetics has been banned in a number of EU countries and an EU-wide ban is on its way. We can make a difference here in the U.S. and Canada, too!

The following U.S. and Canadian companies manufacture cosmetics, personal care, and household products with compassion! They have each signed the Standard, a pledge that they must:

- ★ No longer conduct or commission animal tests
- ★ Not purchase from suppliers ingredients that have been tested on animals after a fixed cut-off date
- ★ Verify the strict implementation of their fixed cut-off date with supplier assurances

This is the only international program of its kind. It is the Standard that consumers can truly trust.

This is Not Just a List, It's a Standard

CCIC's Standard is the only criterion to trust for cosmetics, personal care, and household products that are genuinely not tested on animals. That is because approved companies have done far more than simply issue a testing policy, which can so often be misleading. If a company is listed here, it's because it has been able to prove, according to CCIC's Standard, that its products and ingredients are not tested on animals.

Any company that fails to abide by CCIC's strict criteria will be removed from the Shopping Guide. If a previously listed company no longer appears in the Shopping Guide, it could be for one of the following reasons:

- ★ Company does not/no longer abides by one or more elements of CCIC's Standard
- ★ Company consistently failed to respond/respond satisfactorily to invitations by CCIC to prove its stated animal testing policy
- ★ Company is no longer in the cosmetics and/or household product business
- ★ Company does not/no longer manufactures in the U.S. or Canada
- ★ Company chooses not to participate in program the U.S. or Canada

The companies listed have shown that they care about animals. You can show that you care by choosing to buy their products.

Companies marked with a heart (♥) are the original signatories to the Standard of 1996. Companies marked with diamond (◆) have chosen to license the logo, so you can find our international "leaping bunny" on their products or in-store displays. Companies marked with a square (■) are cruelty-free subsidiaries of parent companies that do not comply with the Standard. Companies that manufacture in Canada are marked with a (♣).

Update your Shopping Guide

New U.S. and Canadian companies are continually being welcomed on to the CCIC Standard. CCIC periodically publishes updated editions of our Shopping Guide, but in the meantime you can add newly approved companies here by regularly checking our up-to-date list at www.leapingbunny.org.
